The conduct of the Missouri river has been closely watched by United States division engineer Potter recently and so far as can be judged from the actions of the stream it does not intend to frighten the people along its banks by any thing in the shape of a flood this season. The highest water mark was reached last Friday, when the river stood twelve feet above low water mark at Benmark, and seven or eight feet at Omaha. Since Friday the water has been falling, and is now only two feet above low water mark at Benmark. Mr. Potter states that all danger of high water is now past.

The faculty of "catching on" is a natural result of the business methods of the White Cloud Mill. It has an advantage in being at the head of the procession. It is one of the oldest mills in its long experience, its long experience and great wealth for all they are worth, and in a thorough and vigorous manner prosecutes its business in such a manner that its products are the best produced in this section of high grade milling. The "Queen of Kansas," made only by this mill, suits every demand for a perfect flour, and is in great demand for its intrinsic worth. Those who use it once will never again use any other.

The election for alderman in St. Joseph resulted in a tie. Four Democrats and four Republicans being elected to the council. The tie was broken by the Democratic majority of two. We are glad to see that our friend, Will Derach, was re-elected.

The Oregon Canning Co. now wants to contract for 500 acres of sugar corn; also 125 acres of tomatoes. Sugar corn to be snapped from stalk in husk. The farmers should come in and contract liberally for their produce, as on them depends a great deal for the success of the factory.

The farmers—the real live, genuine, energetic farmers are about ready for their spring work, and as soon as the weather becomes settled you may look for things to happen—the calamity farmer will continue business at the street corners, telling you how the government ought to be run, and how fast our country is going to the place where they don't
